BUMP3R is powerful and easy-to-use audio CD ripper and extractor software. It is designed for Windows users, and supports a wide variety of audio and video formats, as well as various compression schemes. Q: How to use a global repository for an SBT project? How can I define a global (but project-specific) repository for a SBT project? I am using sbt 0.13.13, Scala 2.10.4 and SBT 0.13.0. This is what I tried already: In my build.sbt: import sbt._ import Keys._ object MyBuild extends Build { val appRepo: Repository = Project.extractDependencies(aggregateFileName in ThisBuild) { base => val baseRepo = url("file://" + base.getPath.toString) baseRepo.mirror.map(_.toURI.toString) }.value //... } In my project/Build.scala: val appRepo = GlobalSettings.config.resolveArtifact(IdeaRepository).value The problem is, IdeaRepository is always empty. But if I omit the settings val, IdeaRepository is fine. So it seems that there's some kind of path resolution problem in general, because if I use a project-specific repository, IdeaRepository is fine (I can get the artifact). If I use GlobalSettings.config.resolveArtifact, IdeaRepository is empty (so is my global repository). What am I doing wrong? A: This is because you're retrieving the value of the setting before the setting is available. For this to work, you need to get the value of the setting in the build object and then set it from there. Try this: object MyBuild extends Build { val appRepo: Repository = Project.extractDependencies(aggregateFileName in ThisBuild) { base => val baseRepo = url("file://" + base.getPath.toString) baseRepo.mirror.map(_.toURI.toString) }.
