Today, let's take a look at a trailer for Zip Stream. It seems like almost a game about game streaming, so you'd think the only focus would be on the actual streaming aspect, but it's actually about creating a game out of players connected to one another. The idea is that players are grouped together, moving on a landscape that's sort of like a hub, and working together to solve puzzles. All those puzzle elements sort of give it a parallel to things like Braid, which is a great point of comparison, to be sure. The player character is the person that runs the stream, and she creates a path for players to follow. For more on Zip Stream, you can check out this interview with the folks behind e24f408de9
