This is to ensure that you, the customer, feels comfortable about purchasing animals or products from the farm. In Ontario, some regulations are in place to ensure that this happens. Many farms, businesses and producers can work with and for you. They have options that range from raising animals simply, under a roof, to using specialized enclosures where animals can live and grow without stress. They can also provide transportation, veterinarian care and provide you with education about specific health issues. Here are some questions to ask your farm or business when looking for animals or products: 1. Do you have a plan to ensure proper animal care and handling? What practices are

Good news: new glass ceiling study released, only 58 per cent of American women leading key roles. There is no better indicator of how warped our view of gender roles is than the fact that such a slender cause is still taking so long to change, but the fact that 58 per cent of the US population is still only leading about 36 per cent of domestic and administrative positions within American businesses, according to a new study, the findings of which are met with amused bemusement by the fact that America even has a glass ceiling. The massive study, called The State of Women and American Business, was published by Catalyst - a nonprofit organisation that promotes corporate and social change - and the global consulting firm McKinsey & Co. Unsurprisingly, the US employs around 19 per cent of the world's population, but only nine per cent of all the senior positions in companies worldwide. If the current situation continues, then just 13 per cent of American leadership roles are held by women. However, women are currently also highly represented in second-tier roles. In all, according to the survey, women are about as likely to occupy such positions as chairs, senior vice presidents

Patients' goals in bladder cancer inpatient treatment. This study determined whether goals determined by patients with bladder cancer are different from the goals and priorities identified by nurses or physicians during admission to a urologic inpatient service. Upon admission to the urologic inpatient service, patients and nurses were asked to identify goals and priorities for treatment. Later, the patients were asked to determine goals again. There was a large difference in the patients' goals: only a few of the patients reported goals that corresponded with the nurses' and physicians' goals and priorities. The conclusions drawn from this study are that patients' goals should be c9d1549cdd
