Last week during the E3 press conference, Agrotech Games CEO Rob Paul returned with a question that he and his staff have been obsessively working on for over a year. In that time they worked to create an exclusive screen novelization based on the team's upcoming game, Order of Swords.

"The reason it took a long time to do is that we really wanted to get it right. We felt some responsibility. We want to make things right," Paul told Game Informer. "That [screen novelization] is a labor of love and we hope to make it a thing that can touch a lot of people."

The story is narrated by a mute girl named Hilda, who speaks of the fickle nature of destiny and destiny itself.

At the same time as Paul's newsletter was being circulated, screen novelizations exist to create a novel that is based on video game content.
