Today is the day the world gets to experience a new invention that is going to change the world. A smartphone that is as powerful as a computer. Imagine. With this new device, we have completely changed how gear is created, what gear is available, and how people interact with the world. We have changed how the world works. The world is changing because of it. The world has changed its shape over the course of the last three years. In almost every industry that has an impact on the world, we have seen massive shifts from the 2010s to the present day. The landscape of where and how we market, distribute, and build the products that affect us has changed. The way we communicate, collaborate, and ultimately survive as a species has changed over the course of this decade. This will continue in the next decade and how people live their lives. Being an entrepreneur with a small team in 2020 has been something that has been radically different from what the world has experienced over the course of the last ten years. We have the amazing ability to share what we are working on with anyone with a connected, interested audience. This the way things are supposed to work and we are lucky to have this technology at our disposal. One of our biggest challenges is how we can keep our brand very distinct and not have it be so over the top for the community. Contrast is about making your colors pop off the screen and out of the photo. This is an option you can use to adjust the contrast in a photo. You can create a higher-contrast photo if you like the look of it, but don't feel it's necessary to create a "porny" photo if that's not how you want your final image to look. e3d0a04c9c
